PROCEEDINGS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF KARNATAKA

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRIES SECRETARIAT

SUB: SUVARNA VASTRA NEETHI 2008-2013.

READ: G.O.No.CI 50 JAIKAIE 2002, dated 21.02.2004.

PREAMBLE:

1. Textile and Garment Industry is the backbone of socio economic structure of the Nation and also the State. It is the largest employment provider, next to agriculture, single largest foreign exchange earner accounting for nearly 25% of exports and contributes to almost 16% of industrial production in the country.

2. The Garment industry in Karnataka has achieved rapid growth in the last 10 years by increasing its total turn over from about US$ 3300 million in 1995-96 to over US$ 9600 million in 2005-06. Although, the State enjoys a significant share (32%) of the domestic Apparel market with over 1500 Apparel units, there is considerable scope for expansion of Apparel manufacturing activities in the State.

3. The Textile Policy (2004-09) of the State which was announced vide Govt. Order read at above, aimed at creating infrastructure, upgradation of technology and skills and facilitating policy environment towards a market oriented and demand driven industry. This policy does not, however, compare favorably with the policies in other key States of the Country primarily due to lack of special incentives offered to Textile and Garment Industry.

4. Keeping this in view, the Hon'ble Chief Minister in his budget speech for the year 2008-09 has announced for the framing of A New Textile Policy so as to promote garment manufacturing which has great potential for employment generation."

5. The Garment and related industry plays an important role in the State economy also in terms of contribution to industrial production, exports and employment. The industry has high growth potential given its ability.

6. Although garmenting activity has been showing significant amount of growth, it is observed that other sub-activities like spinning and weaving have been dwindling over the years. Also processing capacities have been very insignificant which has led to lack of integrated development of the textile sector.

7. The State Government had come out with Textile Policy 2004 –09. The policy framework suggested broad contours of development across various sub sectors, but lacked focus on operationalizing the policy. On the other hand, the Industrial policy of Karnataka has announced a slew of incentives for attracting new investments in the State. However, it is found that this is in general for all type of industries and does not address specific nuances of the textile and garment industry such as creation of common infrastructure for organizing SMEs, providing capacity building support to the industry and most importantly organizing quality skill development programs at the middle management and the shop floor level within the sector.

8. The suggestions given by the “Textile sector Experts Advisory Committee”, under the Chairmanship of the Hon’ble Minister for Textiles, Government of Karnataka, and by the Readymade Garment manufacturers and Training Institutes have stressed upon the overall development of the Textile sector with a special thrust/initiative from the State Government.

9. The above facts necessitated framing of a New Textile Policy which is all encompassing in nature i.e. a policy that would address the entire gamut of issues with emphasis on `garment industries'. For the purpose of preparing a Draft New Textile Policy, the services of IL & FS CDI were engaged which in turn has submitted a Draft New Textile Policy which was discussed in detail covering all the aspects with the Departments concerned and accordingly, a decision has been taken to adopt a New Textile Policy for the period 2008-2013. Hence, the following order:

GOVT. ORDER NO. CI 47 JAKAIYO 2008, BANGALORE, DATED 1ST OCTOBER, 2008

In the circumstances explained in the preamble, Government is pleased to announce the New Textile Policy-2008-2013 (Suvarna Vastra Neethi-2008-2013) as detailed in the Annexure-A to this order which inter alia contain details about classification of Taluks in Karnataka into Zones for the purpose of administering graded scale of incentives for textile and garment industries.

V. ESTABLISHMENT OF FASHION HUB AT BANGALORE:

ANNEXURE – A

GOVERNMENT OF KARNATAKA

Department of Handlooms and Textiles

Suvarna Vastra Neethi
2008 - 2013

1. Preamble :

Acknowledging the contribution of textile and garment sector in terms of industrial production, employment generation and export earnings to the economy of Karnataka;

Realizing its vast potential for creation of employment opportunities in the organized and decentralized sectors, agriculture, rural and urban areas particularly for the women and disadvantaged;

Considering the opportunities in the international market on account of quota phase out and domestic market due to increasing disposable income and revolution in organized retailing;

Recognizing that the progressive policy of the State Government supplementing the concerted efforts of Government of India will have synergistic effect on growth of textile and garment industry in the State;

Having examined the weaknesses, threats and problems facing the sector;

Having identified the strengths, growth areas and available opportunities;

Deciding to re-appraise the present policy to redefine objectives, targets and strategies to exploit the opportunities and pending an independent evaluation of the implementation of the Textile Policy 2004-09 in place in the State (Annexure-1);

2. Cluster Based Development Strategy :

(a) Ever since the first five-year plan period (1951 – 1956), the Government of India has been providing support to different industries through various schemes. The schemes have been of specific nature where in support has been provided for certain activities within the sector needing support, such as R&D activities, Marketing activities, Technical activities, etc.

(b) The cluster based development on the other hand is an all-encompassing approach, which endeavors to provide support to the units in the sector collectively. This approach benefits the industry as a whole rather than providing dispersed benefits.

(c) The proposed cluster development model is aimed at achieving collective efficiencies in each of the key facet of their business right from provision of modern physical and social infrastructure, bulk sourcing of raw materials, procurement of modern technology and equipment, institutional financing support and access to organized domestic and international markets to implementing modern manufacturing and trade practices and also suitable environmental protection measures. The underlying objective of the initiative is to position SMEs on a level playing field with large players while retaining their integrity as individual businesses.

(d) The clusters will be organized / developed in a manner such that a group of entrepreneurs who produce and sell a range of related or complementary products and, thus, face common challenges and opportunities, come together with a view to achieve collective efficiency and penetrate markets beyond their individual reach.

The TEXTILE POLICY – "SUVARNA VASTRA NEETHI : 2008-2013" of Government of Karnataka is enunciated as follows:

3. Definition :

The Textile and Garment industry to be covered under this policy will include all units, which are engaged in various value chain activities of the industry such as Spinning, Weaving (Power loom and Handloom) including pre loom activities, Knitting, Processing, Garmenting, units engaged in manufacturing Technical textiles and all other supporting ancillary activities including Textile machinery manufacturing.

4. Vision :

To establish the textile and garment industry of Karnataka, as a producer of internationally competitive value added products thereby maintaining dominant presence in the growing domestic and international market and contributing to the sustainable employment and economic growth of the State.

5. Objectives :

a. To achieve balanced, higher and sustainable growth in the entire textile value chain from fibre to finished products, with emphasis on balanced regional development.

b. To increase the income levels of the people dependent on the SMEs within the textile and garment sector thereby creating additional employment opportunities to at least 5 lakh people during the policy period.

c. To facilitate emerging units in critical areas such as production technology, market research and development, HRD & ITES for exploiting the emerging global and domestic trade opportunities.

6. Readymade Garment Sector :

(i) The last stage of the textile value chain is the readymade garment sector, where the maximum value addition takes place. The garment sector is low capital intensive and highly labour intensive. It is estimated that Rs.1 lakh investment in this sector creates about 2-3 jobs. This sector can provide employment to rural workers, as it does not need sophisticated skill sets. This industry has a woman-friendly employment orientation and provides employment to large number of women. Karnataka, especially Bangalore, has had a strong garment industry for a long time. The garment units of Bangalore are producing primarily, woven fabric based fashion garments. There are about 593 medium to big units in Bangalore and number of small units in and around Bangalore and Bellary.

(ii) After de-reservation and quota phase out, the process of expansion and consolidation by the garment units of Karnataka has commenced. It is reported that average number of machines per unit are considerably more in Bangalore as compared to other clusters of readymade garments. The value realization of units located in Bangalore is also higher than units located in other clusters. The sector has registered a sharp growth in exports in recent years and provides employment to over three lakh persons in Bangalore, of which almost 95% of the work force are women. The focus of policy will be to create conducive environment for the growth of garment industry enabling it to reach greater heights.

7. Focus Areas for Intervention :

In furtherance of the objectives, the focus areas for providing interventions to the textile and garment industry will be on:

- a. Strengthening of Textile Value Chain Activities
- b. Geographical Dispersion of Textile & Garment units
- c. Human Resource Development
- d. Infrastructure Development
- e. Market Development & Branding
- f. Design Development & Product Diversification
- g. Institutional Development
- h. Standards & Compliance
- i. Technology Upgradation of entire Textile Value Chain

All of the above through a Cluster Based Development Strategy.

(a) Strengthening of Textile Value Chain Activities

Although Karnataka is very strong in garmenting, most of the units source their fabrics from various sources outside the State including imports. Therefore, the policy would follow a dual approach of development i.e. strengthening of existing value chain activities and fill missing gaps creating facilities for value chain activities.

(i) Strengthening of Power Loom Sector

The power loom sector would be supported and strengthened in order to modernize production technologies, such that they are able to supply good quality fabrics in the required quantum.

(ii) Creating of Processing Capacities

As a strong garmenting industry base requires to be supported by availability of adequate amount of processed fabrics / raw material, the policy will aim at developing processing capacities in the State, at suitable locations, thereby forming value linkages between the existing weaving and the garmenting sector.

(iii) Enhancing Capacity in Garmenting

The policy would focus on enhancing the garmenting capacity in the State, by providing them with skilled manpower, through skill development of local youths, and provision of hard infrastructure thereby making units in the State competitive with their international counterparts. In addition, the focus will also be on geographical dispersion of the industry to the backward areas of the State, so that a large number of rural youth in these areas are gainfully employed. 2/3 of the Government support envisaged under the Policy is earmarked for the Garment industry.

(iv) Entry into Technical Textiles

In order to achieve a fast mover advantage in the technical textiles sector, the policy would support ventures in technical textiles such as Camouflaged clothing, Construction textiles, Institutional manufacturing gears, etc.

(v) Strengthening the Handloom Sector

With respect to handloom industry, the focus will be on diversifying the product mix to meet the ever changing customer requirements by leveraging the traditional strengths through provision of appropriate technology, design and market inputs. The focus will also be on developing value added handloom fabrics like Ayur Vastra, which are fabrics dyed with Organic herbs, seeds and fruits which have Ayurvedic medicinal properties.

(b) Technology Up-gradation of entire Textile Value Chain

(i) The Government of India has initiated a Technology Up-gradation Fund Scheme (TUFS) effective April 1, 1999, for financing, modernization and technology up-gradation of textile industry. During its eight years of operation, the units in the State have failed to avail significant benefits of this scheme. As on February 29, 2007, project cost of Rs. 73,532 crores have been sanctioned under TUFS and the share of Karnataka is only Rs. 3,435 crores, which is an indication that the units in the State have been unable to upgrade their technology to the desired level.

(ii) Apart from support and encouragement to avail funding under the TUFS of Government of India, the textile policy would provide a capital subsidy for upgrading the technology, quality testing equipments etc. as an additional incentive to the industry to modernize their production techniques.

8. Policy Targets :

Year	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11	2011-12	2012-13	Total
Employment	50000	75000	125000	125000	125000	500000
Investment (Rs. in Crores)	1000	1500	2500	2500	2500	10000

Note: 50% of the above targets will be achieved in Backward taluks identified by the High Power Committee for Redressal of Regional imbalances.

9(b) Establishment of Fashion Hub at Bangalore

Recognizing the potential of Bangalore, which is today the IT Capital and fast becoming the Garment capital of India, it is proposed to establish THE FASHION HUB near Doddaballapur, Bangalore with the following objectives :

(i) Attract all domestic / international professionals from the field of fashion, design, buying houses and business representatives on a single platform to facilitate business with India.

(ii) Project fashion hub as a gateway to Indian fashion Industry by having complete access to data base, Government policies etc.

(iii) Interact and exchange of ideas from all the fields of design through seminars, exhibitions, fashion weeks, workshops, interactive sessions, etc.

(iv) Establish a Research and Development Centre to project and explore Indian capabilities in design technology and quality standards.

(v) To establish a sourcing hub catering to all fashion industry requirements.

(vi) To showcase Indian Handicraft and Indian designers work as a tourist destination.

(vii) Incubation center, an attempt to inculcate the spirit of entrepreneurship engrained in the creative culture of designers so that their ideas get transformed into new products or services capable of being marketed and sold.

9(c) Market Development and Branding

(i) The SME category of the textile and garment sectors will be encouraged and assisted to face the challenges of the globalized economy and increase its presence in the domestic and international market. The market development assistance would be provided on a cluster based approach, thereby assuring the units of forging backward and forward market linkages.

(ii) The State Government recognizes that the key behind selling in global markets is manufacturing of high quality products and creating a Brand for such products. Products manufactured by specific clusters, either it be handlooms or specialized products, would be identified for the purposes of creating a common Brand thereby providing part support for such initiatives.

9(d) Design Development and Product Diversification

The global competitiveness of the textile and garment units particularly in the SME category is affected due to their inability to catch up with fashion trends of the global markets. Lack of product diversification due to limited investment in designing capability has also been affecting their competitiveness. The policy will focus on providing assistance to the textile and garment units for meeting requirements related to design capabilities, product quality and standards.

9(e) Standards and Compliances

As this policy aims to put the textile and garment sector in the State on the global fore front, it is recognized that industry needs to be compliant to various trade related compliances, from time to time. Development of standards will be given special priority by providing the enterprises in the industry with all necessary inputs.

9(f) Geographical Dispersion of the Textile and Garment Units

(i) In order to reduce the regional imbalances and promote employment and growth in the backward areas of the State, the policy will focus on geographical dispersion of the textile and garment units and creation of skilled employment in identified regions.

(ii) The State is classified into the following 3 Zones:
